I can afford the computer next year in 2026 by or around July-August if I sell books and items totaling 450, which would need be the three months of and $65 \times 4 + 230 = 460$ on books and 190 on auxiliary items, to have everything done by 05/12/2026.

If I lag 1 month and lead one-ahead I can afford 130 more of-parts, with the project completed on 12/10/2025, but I will need sell books and various item's to sell debt. The question now comes down to the answer of paying debt at the same time, prior to buying anything, or paying later with sold items as for the debt. I have no other options but to sell items (now) if I intend to finish the project or purchase a PC.

I need generate an-additional 65 a month for my payment(s) for now. This affords 200 for groceries, and 100 for tobacco.

Bottom Line: I will need sell books or I must have 65 a week from my Mother. Or I need 200.
